About the Property

There are homes you visit and then there are homes you feel. From the moment you turn onto Galloping Way, a long serene cul-de-sac where the only traffic is your neighbors heading home, you already sense it the pace changes. The noise of the world falls away. Pull up to the curb and take in a full acre of beautifully proportioned property that gives you the breathing room, the privacy, and the presence that most listings simply cannot offer. By the time you step inside you already know this is something genuinely rare. A full acre of land is not just a number it is a feeling. It is the generous setback from the street that gives your home presence and curb appeal. It is the side yards that provide a comfortable buffer and a sense of seclusion. It is the expansive backyard that makes ever ...
