About the Property

Nearly an acre at the end of a private lane in Cape May Court House. Split-rail fencing, crape myrtles, and drifts of black-eyed Susans line the way up to a 4-5 car stone driveway. A cedar fence encloses the back yard, and a porch sits at each end of the house — front porch Trex and AZEK. A brick patio runs out to a fire pit ringed with a mature herb garden, and gravel garden rooms tie everything together: landscape lighting, boxwood and lavender borders, roses, raised planters, and mature shade trees over a lawn deep enough that the back of the property fades into a tree line. A storage shed handles the overflow. Inside, 925 square feet opens up immediately upon entering and runs the length of the house — white raised-panel cabinets, subway tile, a matched stainless suite, recessed ...
